SCULPTORS EXHIBIT LAST HONORS PAID BEST IN STUDIOS

Purdy Directs Annual Show at Leading Jews at Funeral-Gorham Galleries-Works of Americans.

The annual invitation exhibition of the Gorham Company has developed to get into the little chapel of the Jewish seminary in 123d street yesterday morning, when funeral services were held for the late Rev. Dr. Solomon of the town and chooses always with discrimination, taste and freedom from bias. To gain an entry into these exhibitions it is not recovery for the exhibitions in the chapel holds only 200. bitions it is not necessary for an artist or who tried to get in were reform Jews, to be already famous; all that is required is to have something to say, or the ability to say nothing nicely. The preponderance of the second class is inevitable always, and the fact that there are almost no candidates for the interesting first division this year cannot be held against Mr. Purdy, whose record is too long and honorable to be disputed, but must be attributed rather to some lack in the conditions of the times. All that can be done in the way of showing off the work that has been secured has been done, and the accessories in the way of plants, &c., have been handsomely attended to. The most interesting piece of work in the display is the "Golden Hour" by Rudolf Evans, a bronze that dominated the spring Academy last year. There is a very reasonable and attractive blending in this figure of the classic and modern, a reflex of the archalstic tendencies imposed upon all young sculptors by the "mode." The quality that gives the bronze its highest value, however, is the fact that the candid, unashamed inquiry of the young girl upon the threshold of life shines out from the work and dwarfs all thought of the technique. The black, curious yet satisfactory patina will be the despair of Mr. Evans's American rivals. They still do these things very well in France. Ceeli de B. Howard, Anna Glenny, Diedrich Hunt and Mrs. Sara Morris Greene are among those who provide novelties in the way of style. Mr. Hunt shows a "Horse and Jockey" that has a curious manner. It appears to have been hacked from the clay with a rough acceled the provide and the cheapen was not decorated. There was no music. Rabbi Elias L. Solomon of Kehitakh Israel read the orthodox burial service and made a brief address.

"Dr. Schechter embodied all that was been address."

"Dr. Schechter embodied all that was been handed in the fact that the candid, unand teaches mankind."
